Loomis, Simpson and Murray Beat Scandinavians at Christiania.

"The fraternity cannot recognize the right of organized base ball to fine players for taking part in games after the season is over and after their contracts have expired. The players have, of course, no right to represent any club without the consent of its owner, but as long as they trade upon their own personal reputations, they are clearly within their rights.

"The relation of player to magnate is purely contractual, and gives no basis for the principle of paternalism which the magnates now attempt to inject into it. In addition, representatives of organized base ball have for years conducted post-season trips in which they shared the receipts, and it is difficult for the players to see the distinction n. LAUDS PRESIDENT'S RECORD.

Chamil Clark Voices Approval of istration Before Kentuckians. GREENVILLE, Ky., October 24 .-

Chang Clark, Speaker of the National House of Representatives, addressing a large audience at the courthouse here late yesterday in behalf of President Wilson voiced approval of the administration's record.

He devoted himself largely to a discussion of the way in which questions of demestic policy arising during President Wilson's administration had been met. Referring to attacks made upon the administration because of the passage of the Adamson eight-hour law, he emphe itsed the fact that a majority of the resublican votes in the lower house had been cast in its favor, and asserted that determined effort by a single means of the Senate would have blecked its passage.

After the league season is over. Mr. Tener said that in each contract signed by the player there is a clause in which the player agrees not to play after the season without the consent of the commission. This clause was inserted, he said, to protect territorial rights of the different clubs. The National League president declares that the commission has power to fine players for any such infraction of the rules, but would not say that such fines have been levied against the Boston American players for participating in a game against New Haven a few days after winning the world series. He asserted that the New York Nationals and Philadelphia Americans and several other individual players also had violated their contracts in this respect, and added: "There undoubtedly will be a general disciplining."

Base ball is not helped by having players organize teams which have no class and merely go through the motions of playing the game. That is why the commission put a ban on it. lyn so that the Dodgers would win the pennant, he is said to have meant it as a slap at Ban Johnson, having in mind Johnson's failure to take any action against President Lannin of the Boston Red Sox when he accused the American League umpires of discriminating against his team. There is no parallel in the two cases, however. McGraw's statement was an insinuation that the game of base ball was not fair and square, and for this reason should have been investigated and McGraw reprimanded, so as to kill the doubt reprimanded, so as to kill the doubt which was created by the report.

Ban Johnson was right in not bring-ing the Lannin matter to the attention of the league directors, for some man-ager or club owner often lets out a ager or club owner often lets out a squawk about the umpires. That is one of the favorite alibis that those in base ball authority frequently resort to and is never taken seriously.

It is not revealing a secret, however, to say that President Johnson was decidedly peeved over Lannin's remark, and that he has made up his mind that a person with so little control over his temper does not belong in the game. game.

There is nothing in the story that Bill Carrigan will become the head of the Boston club. Carrigan the other day invested $100,000 of his and his wife's money in a business venture, and he will be identified with it in the capacity of a director. That will eliminate all possible chance of his investing a greater fortune in the Boston base ball venture.

Rice is wintering in Chicago, where the cold weather will keep him in fine fettle and with a warm place to train in the spring he ought to be in his best form when next season opens.

Two big games hold the attention of the general foot ball public this week. One is the first meeting of the year between two of the big universities, Cornell and Harvard, and the other is to take place between the University of Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh.

Notwithstanding Harvard's fallure to show the strength of former years, the situation at Cornell does not seem to promise an easy victory. In fact, if a reported statement by Coach Al Sharpe in the statement of the statement by Coach Al Sharpe in the statement of the state ended October 22, and the pairings caps to apply. The semi-finals and finals will be played Saturday, all at eighteen holes. Walter Tuckerman and E. M. Talcott each has won the event twice and should either win again the cup will become his permanent post-backs. De Hart and Hastings, carried Pitt through a victorious schedule a year ago, and this season no team has been able to stop them. Penn must build a defense to prevent these two men gaining ground consistently, which is easier said than done. The Cornell-Harvard and Pittsburgh-Pennf sylvania games will attract great attention Saturday and should develop some brilliant play by all four elevens.

The first game of the championship high school series is to be played this afternoon at American League Park at 3:15 o'clock, Western and Central being the contending teams. The latter is much heavier than the former and is touted to win without a great deal of trouble. Western is represented by the lightest elevan it has put out in years. Jack Gass will referee the games and Hunter McGuire will be umpire. oughly familiar with every foot of it. In the afternoon, playing over the Druid Hills course, 6,500 yards long, Jones registered a score of 74.

A new golf course has just been finished a few miles south of the Garden City Golf Club, to be known as the Garden City Golf Club, to be known as the Garden City Country Club, which will be opened in the spring. The new course has been built under the supervision of Walter J. Travis, former American and British amateur champion, and it is claimed that it will be, when ready for play, one of the best tests of golf in this country. As designed by Travis the new course measures 6,408 yards from the middle of the back tees to the center of the greens. The new course, it is claimed, accomplishes the double purpose of making golf fairly easy for the duffer and at the same time difficult enough for the low-handicap man.
